

Theory 6: Bureaucratic Autonomy & Institutional Turf in the Tunisian Security Apparatus (1957-2026)

Empirical test of Stepan (1988), Wilson (1989) & Bellin (2002): Confidentiality asymmetry ('secret défense'), civilian colonization, and outsider rejection.

Source: Journal Officiel de la République Tunisienne, 1957-2026. Author's extraction from MedDhia/EliteNetworksTN.
Confidentiality Note: Military command/officer appointments are governed by 'secret défense' (non-gazetted orders), whereas Interior posts require statutory JORT gazettement, creating differential administrative observability.