

Each rupture reached into a different part of the state

Appointments in the three years after each rupture against the four years before, divided by the same ratio for the apparatus as a whole. A point to the right of the line marks a part of the state reshaped harder than the rest; to the left, one left comparatively alone. Expressing it as a ratio to the whole removes the differing size of the gazette in each period.

Source: Journal Officiel de la République Tunisienne, 1957–2026 (6,378 French issues, jort.tn). Author's extraction. Categories with fewer than 8 appointments a year before a rupture are not plotted for that rupture.